INTERESTS

- Data Analysis: I enjoy diving into the numbers, identifying patterns, and deriving meaningful conclusions to support strategic choices.
- Artificial Intelligence: Keeping up with the latest innovations and breakthroughs energizes me as I envision the potential for optimizing processes and driving innovation.
- Geopolitics: The interplay between political events, and their impacts on the common man never fails to intrigue me. I find it stimulating to analyze and predict the effects of geopolitical factors on country relations and policies.
- History: By studying the past, I gain valuable insights into the present dynamics and can make more informed decisions. The lessons of history provides me with a deeper understanding of market behavior.
- Psychology: Uncovering the motivations behind consumer choices and finding innovative ways to connect with them is both challenging and rewarding. I thrive on understanding human behavior and leveraging that understanding in the finance industry.
- Economy: Recognizing the essential role that the economy plays in fulfilling human needs and aspirations to understand how the world's economic systems shape our lives.
- Spirituality: I believe in fostering an environment that brings out the best in individuals, identifying their unique skills and talents, and creating an atmosphere of efficiency and motivation within leadership and team management approaches.
